5 It may perhaps be argued that there is no real discrepancy between the preamble & rule 5 The latter rule though making all Indians eligible for the scholarships provides for preference being shown to natives of Mysore Even ~~the grant of Scholarship~~ the scholars are also bound to serve the State after finishing their education The presence of ~~highly~~ in the State service qualified Indians, even though they are not natives of Mysore, tends to encourage Scientific education among the people of Mysore by providing suitable teachers, by offering examples for emulation

5. The apparent discrepancy may be reconciled on these grounds - Practically, in selecting the Scholars, due weightage (very) given to the claims of Mysorean candidates - 29/11/09

7. The necessity for extending the scope of selection was fully discussed before Rule V was altered two years ago. We are now concerned only with the removal of the verbal discrepancy which has been pointed out by the Second Councillor, exists between that rule and Rule I It is a pity the point was lost sight of when the draft of the G.O of 10th Dec 1907 was prepared.

8. All that is now necessary to make the rules mutually consistent is to omit the words "among the people of Mysore" from Rule I The preceding rules sufficiently define the extent & scope of the provision made by Govt for the encouragement & promotion of higher research & technical education

It seems to me that the inconsistency should be removed, not by amending the preamble as suggested by the Secretary, but by bringing the general provision contained in Rule 5 more nearly ~~both the~~ into harmony with the declared object of the institution of these scholarships

2 The money from which the scholarships are derived was paid out of the revenues of Mysore, and Government paid it not because it was legally bound towards any third party, but because the original claim against it was just, and if Damodardas had left any heirs, they would have a moral claim. The object of the arrangement was to keep alive the memory of the original creditor while utilising the money for some act of public utility. Damodardas was a domiciled Native of the State and all ~~the~~ the bulk of his wealth had been acquired here. Government rightly considered that part of the proceeds should benefit the members of his caste, and that the bulk should be used for the benefit of those within the State. Both the ends were properly provided for in the rules as originally framed in 1902.

11 If these Scholarships had been founded by Damodardas himself out of private money, he might have thrown them open to any body he pleased. But being virtually Mysore State Scholarships, they should be awarded only to subjects of the State, or to such others whose services the State is actually in need of. That persons from outside bind themselves to serve the State for five years is merely an illusory consideration. It might often only mean that the State after giving strangers with not an iota of a claim on its resources, very handsome scholarships, would be expected to burden itself further with the creating for them benefit some useless and well paid appointments. If we have any definite need to satisfy — say of a Chemistry Professor or a Mining expert — we might enter into Contract with some Suitable Candidate and give him the Scholarship and send him over for training. In such a case, it is most essential that we should select the best available man, and I would then advertise for such and award the Scholarship to him, whether he happens to be a Mysore man or an outsider. There would be no reason even why he should be necessarily an Indian — except on the score that an Englishman or other European would probably demand much higher terms of remuneration.

12 When however we award Scholarships to candidates for whose services, we have no immediate definite need, it is nothing but bare justice that the State should not award scholarships from its funds to those who are not its subjects. In such cases, we must restrict the grant to Mysore Candidates only and if we do not find suitable Candidates in any year we may either accumulate the savings, or enlarge the scope and award scholarships for other studies in advanced branches in European or other similar Universities

13 Even supposing that the funds are considered as private property of Damodardas there is no reason to throw them open to outsiders ~~[illegible]~~ It is at least a very probable supposition that this banker who lived all his life in Si-

Rangapatna and Mysore at a time when people were much more local in their sympathies than at present, would not have gone out of the State to find objects for the exercise of his charity

14 Such benefactions even when granted by local governments in British India are carefully restricted to Candidates of their own province No State with limited resources can afford to flitter away the funds at its disposal by scattering its gifts over a large area outside its own limits

15 If the original rule is restored and the Scholarships are restricted to Students of Mysore not only would they directly benefit the Subjects of the State, but their existence would serve as a powerful incentive to those who study in our Colleges in striving for these valuable prizes

Submitted to His Highness

The Resolution of the Council on the subject of amending Rules V, IX and XIV of the Rules for the grant of Damodar Das Scholarships is submitted for the orders of His Highness

2 The subject came up for consideration on the remarks passed by the Second Councillor drawing attention to the discrepancy between Rule I (preamble) and Rule V as to the eligibility of persons for the scholarships The object of the institution of the scholarships is stated, in the preamble Rule I, to be to encourage and promote scientific research and technical education among the people of Mysore Under Rule V the scholarship is open to all Indians provided however that when the qualifications of the candidates are otherwise equal, preference is to be given to Natives of Mysore The Resolution now arrived at is based mainly on the grounds set forth in the Second Councillor's note dated 22nd November 1909 Its effect is to restrict the grant of scholarships to Mysore young men except where the scholarship holder is required for employment in the public service on the successful completion of his term, in which case it is made permissible to throw open the scholarship to other than natives of Mysore also.

13 My intention as shown in my note was that the old rule was to be restored Some alteration was made in Council, which corrected the errors in the old rule that Natives of Mysore & only would be eligible only when they had studied in Mysore Colleges I did not at the time notice that another consequence of the alteration would be to make no distinction between outsiders and Mysoreans studying in the Mysore Colleges. I do not think it was our intention to go so far If we adopt this, we shall have to make the thing ~~clearer~~ much more precise as e g by laying down what length of study here would suffice The simplest thing would be to stick to the old rule in this respect, by allowing outsiders to come in only in default of domiciled Mysore men & we may say that a study of 2 or 4 yrs should enable these men so to come in The Dewan's sub-
